

2011 – ASK FOR THE ANCIENT PATHS

MIRACLES VS. MAGICK

I apologize for the length of this newsletter. It is the most intense, serious newsletter I have written. It began with the intention of being a very short interim newsletter and has instead become one of the longest. Weeks of prayer, vision and research have gone into this newsletter to ensure, as always, every word is accurate and precise.

I would also like to take this time to give you a brief update. I thank everyone who prayed for me, those who wrote me with their words, visions and scriptures, for they have truly propelled me onward on my journey to be healed and cleaned out. I want to thank all of you for being there for me. And of course, those who have sent me support despite the difficulties with Paypal, I thank you so very much as well. My electronics have been recovered and everything is working fine. I have my old computer back and am catching up on everything that was put aside. My attitude has changed and I am no longer “fighting against the pricks” but am content in my situation and awaiting God’s release to the next level. Of course, it is still my heart to bring as many as would along with me.

I have discovered new friends from this mailing list who have become dear to my heart, and I praise God for so many friends after spending a lifetime alone. He has truly changed my life in so many ways. And the great thing is that change will never stop for all eternity.

Many will be pleased that I have moved on, from Buffy The Vampire Slayer who healed my heart in so many ways, to Undercover Boss. I cry through every episode as the Lord is igniting compassion in my heart. So many prophets have spoken two words over me – “More compassion” – and they will be pleased to know that the Lord heard their cry. I am able now to relate to the human condition, something that had been foreign to me.

Please know that I am not taking you on some heretical journey into paganism or even paganistic Christianity. Please be patient as you read. There are some very important points in this newsletter that will lay a foundation. In these foundations, I will explain the spiritual mechanics of the things you need to know, what lies behind and how some of the Biblical quotes we use so glibly actually work. I trust you will find these things faith building and empowering in your walk with God in the truth of His complete salvation.

I was certainly not planning to do this as a newsletter, but here it is. Speaking with my covering, who surprisingly is hearing a variation of these same things, He told me that the Lord told him there is a great deception coming to the church. It will look like God. It will feel like God. But do not go by your feelings. Stay in the Word of God. Check things out by the Word of God. Many will be swept away by this great deception because they are ungrounded.

There will follow a great outpouring of the Holy Spirit when the Lord will set up the true Apostolic Government. Today many call themselves apostles, but too often it is a self anointed title, rather than God’s anointing. Indeed, it was spoken over me several years ago that I would be part of the Apostolic government that would replace what man has set up. But I tell you now that I do not have the qualities of a true apostle and neither do many others that aspire to be called by this title. I believe that part of the judgment against us will come from adorning ourselves falsely with offices and titles that are not ours to claim but God’s to bestow. We do this out of a lack of understanding and a need to be recognized as something we are not. We do this to gain acceptance by our peers and worship from our followers.

My acceptance comes by knowing, regardless of what I feel or want, that I will obey what I am told by the Lord. My acceptance comes from the assurance that on Judgment Day, He will not say, "Go away. I never knew you."

Once this government is established, we will see the manifestation of the Kingdom of God through a people that truly walk in the shoes of Jesus. They will do greater miracles than He. They will not need the flimsy excuses, "Oh, you did not receive your healing because of YOUR lack of faith." How much faith did the 10 lepers have when 9 of them did not even thank Jesus for their healing? How much faith did the man lowered down through the ceiling have when he was forced to go to Jesus by his friends? How much faith did the blind man at the pool of Bethesda have when he had no idea who stood there before or after he was healed? How much faith did the epileptic have who was thrown into the fire and brought to Jesus by his father? How much faith did the daughter who was dead have when her father went to ask Jesus for help? How much faith did the man of Gaderenes have who intended to assault Jesus and His disciples in a demonic fit?

We have been sold a bill of goods by a leadership who have had no idea of the truth and simplicity of the Gospel and the God who wrote it. They have, for 200 centuries made excuses for their own lack and faithlessness, and we, the people, have said, "Hallelujah!" and "Amen!" for each little crumb of new enlightenment we have received. It is amazing that the meaning of the number 200 is INSUFFICIENCY. The "church" brought insufficiency to the Gospel through inquisitions, ceremonies, traditions, fears, perverted piousness, etc. And we are still in that bondage and are still slaves to mistruths and a complicated mess that we have been spoon fed because we do not search out God for ourselves.

This is not a newsletter to tickle the ears of the readers (or eyes, I guess). This is heavy on my heart, and if we are to truly be free, we need to truly be honest. We must all check our deception at the door, sacrifice it on the altar, wash ourselves clean, and enter into the Holy of Holies.

I am given to understand that these foundations are a precursor to deliverance. "My people perish for lack of knowledge." These past few days have been mind-boggling for me. On top of the normal difficulties (or cost) for delving into this stuff to reveal the truth of it, I have been overwhelmed with visions, Bible scriptures and even the clarity of revelations given to other people. It all fell into place this morning as if a giant hand were putting the pieces of a humongous puzzle together. The understanding came as the final piece was placed. It was quite an amazing thing to watch. As it is with me, the visions have been ongoing for several days now.

I find I must apologize to God and to you for my previous arrogance. Susan puts up with my arrogance on a regular basis, but luckily she ignores me and lets me rant for awhile. I have seen so much and delved into so many realms, both dark and light, that it tends to give me the feeling that I have seen everything. After all, what more can there possibly be? But, then the Lord, who, by the way, also "seems to" ignore this for now, brings across my path, in His perfect timing, something I have never seen before.

And this is the issue that precipitates this newsletter.

I have absolutely dismissed magick my entire life. I simply have never believed in it. It was completely outside my realm of thought as I delegated all magick to the realm of illusion and lies. However,

Thursday I saw a vision I did not understand. Quite simply, it was the sacrifice of a person, a child actually, and their blood was infused into the spirit of the person making the sacrifice, as well as, those participating in the ritual. It threw me for an absolute loop since I had no mechanical explanation for this. And by mechanical explanation, I mean either physical (natural realm) or spiritual explanation of how a thing works. It is the one gift I have been given from birth. I am shown the mechanics of things in the spiritual realm to understand how they function. Until I see the mechanics of the concept presented, I can't accept it as truth. I must investigate what is behind it.

I knew this vision to be true, but I could not see the mechanics of it. How could such a thing be possible? I struggled with this for an entire day when finally the Lord revealed to me, through another avenue of deliverance and vision, that I had completely negated the possibility of magick in the world. And because of this, there had been a veil over my eyes. It was not that He was advocating magick, but its reality exists and I could no longer ignore it.

Well, I struggled with this even more all evening and through the night, and by morning I woke up with revelation and understanding pouring into me like a waterfall. It is so basic an understanding that we must grasp its truths in order to move onto successful deliverance.

Isaiah 45:6-7 I am ADONAI; there is no other; besides me there is no God. I am arming you, although you don't know me, so that those from the east and those from the west will know that there is none besides me - I am ADONAI; there is no other. I form light, I create darkness; I make well-being, I create woe; I, ADONAI, do all these things. (TCJB)

Isaiah 45:6-7 I [am] Jehovah, and there is none else, Except Me there is no God, I gird thee, and thou hast not known Me. So that they know from the rising of the sun, And from the west, that there is none besides Me, I [am] Jehovah, and there is none else, Forming light, and preparing darkness, Making peace, and preparing evil, I [am] Jehovah, doing all these things. (YLT)

This verse bothered me. It was as if I had never seen it before. Here we have God taking responsibility for everything He has created. He is saying He created evil, although we all know, in reality, it was Lucifer who created (relative term) evil. It was Lucifer who was the father of lies. It was Lucifer who created (again, relative term) sin. But here, in the book of Isaiah we have God taking responsibility for its creation regardless of whether or not Lucifer was the one who actually brought its conception forth. God alone created everything.

God is, has always been, and always will be, the Creator of everything. He created good, He created evil, He created light, He created darkness, He created nutrients, He created poison, He created absolutely everything. This is a very sobering thought. And one we banter around without really understanding what it really means. Quite simply put, there is absolutely nothing in existence that did not come from the creative hand of God.

I can hear the complaints already. But do not read through old filters, be open to what the Spirit of God is saying. So please bear with me and keep reading.

God put in place every molecule, every quark that would be needed for every situation. It can go one way or another. There is matter and anti-matter. There is light matter and dark matter. There is, in existence, the material required to produce anything for every scenario. He created the tools. It was up to us, the angels and mankind, to use these tools for our intended purpose. It is the essence of free will.

My friend called so we talked about this struggle I was having. He brought up the scriptures of Moses in Genesis. Moses appeared before Pharaoh, his staff became a snake, a living thing, as he threw it onto the ground. We understand this is the miracle of God. But the magicians did the same thing. There was no miracle of God in what they did. Moses turned the rivers into blood. The magicians did the same thing. Moses caused frogs to come out of the water. The magicians did the same thing.

Oddly enough, the magicians were only able to duplicate these 3 miracles.

Laban (Genesis 31:30, 32), the father of Rachel and Rebekah, consulted images. Balaam practiced magic (Numbers 22:7). Saul consulted the witch of Endor (who was surprised at Samuel's appearance because he did not come through her enchantments).

Magic is "the science or practice of evoking spirits, or educing the occult powers of nature to produce effects apparently supernatural." The Scriptures therefore afford no evidence that man can gain supernatural powers to use at his will. This consequence goes some way toward showing that we may conclude that there is no such thing as real magic; for although it is dangerous to reason on negative evidence, yet in a case of this kind it is especially strong. (Smith's Bible Dictionary)

My stance, like Smith's Bible Dictionary, was that all this stuff was hocus pocus and exaggeration to scare the weak-minded and unlearned. I stand before you humbled in correction. Perhaps I was not in a mindset to understand it before, but I now know the mechanics of how this works. Please be patient as I take you through my thought process on this matter. We will examine magick first. (Magic: performed by entertainers and illusionists. Magick: black arts with roots all the way back to Ham.)

There are three basic types of magick distinguished by anthropologists:

1. Homeopathic Magic: the use of small portions of a thing to represent and affect the whole.
2. Sympathetic Magic or Imitative Magic: in which a symbolic action (for example, sticking pins into a doll) affects an object with which the symbol is in "sympathy" or harmony
3. Contagious Magic: the influencing of one thing through contact with another that is believed to be magically charged. Ex. Voodoo dolls are attached with a part of fingernails, hair or teeth of the targeted person. The voodoo doll, then is assumed to be the person himself and it can be used to hurt the victim. This type of magic falls under black magic, since it is practiced to cause harm or injury to others.

The theoretical foundation of magick is a belief in hidden relationships among entities within the universe – especially between human beings and the external world which includes the application of the right colors, objects, sounds, or gestures in a given context to bring about the desired result. It affirms the power of thought.

Magick tends to be private and oriented toward power and gain by supernatural means rather than toward worship. White magic is employed for benign ends, and black magic (witchcraft/sorcery) is used to harm others.

The distinction between magick and divination is simple: Magick attempts to affect the future, not merely to predict it. Concocting love potions, casting spells, and invoking spirits by chants or gestures are magickal practices. These techniques must be combined with concentration of thought upon the desired objective.

By the end of the 18th century, magick had few serious adherents among the educated classes. Folk magic and "underground" magick, however, have continued.

In the Americas traditional forms of religion have mingled with West African practices to produce Vodou (Vodun or voodoo) and Santería. Magick often provides a means of self-affirmation and empowerment.

Magick reflects deeply rooted tendencies of the human mind. Ancient magical processes of mind are also reflected to varying degrees in common practices such as the use of mascot figures and the enshrining of photographs and even locks of hair of loved ones on a dresser or mantle. Whereas most people expect that such practices influence only their way of thinking about a particular circumstance, the magician believes that these practices affect external reality.

Thaumaturgy is the capability of a "saint" or magician to work miracles or magick.

Whew! Alright, we now know the generally accepted theoretical essence of magick.

This does not include:

- Divination: seeing or predicting things
 - Persons born with a prophetic gift who use that gift for purposes other than ordained by God; they actually align themselves with demons and people with the use of soul ties
 - Divination and fortune telling is NOT of God. Fortune tellers are NOT of God and they use this unrepentant gift for self-serving purposes of fame, power, control, income and enrichment
 - Please understand the examples of scripture to define this in your thinking
- Occult: dealing with supernatural influences, agencies, or phenomena (spirits)
 - Aligning oneself with demonic forces for self-serving purposes of fame, sex, power and enrichment
- ESP: the power to perceive things which are not present to the senses
 - Using the abilities afforded to one through soul ties for self-serving purposes of power and enrichment
- Theurgy: to bring in supernatural (spirits) intervention in human affairs
 - Aligning oneself with demonic forces for self-serving purposes of power and enrichment
- Ceremonial or Ritual: This varies religion to religion and is generally performed for both positive and negative purposes. This involves but isn't limited to removal of spirit possession, prosperity, invoking injury to some party or parties, improving next life form, etc.
 - Aligning oneself with demonic forces and satanic lies
- Tantra: introduced by Hindu and Buddhist religions, tantra involves use of elements such as mantras and mudras (spells) from Vedas (sacred texts) recited to magically accomplish goal
 - Opening oneself through trances for possession by demonic forces
- Alchemy: a philosophy and ancient practice to change base metals into gold, the preparation of the "elixir of longevity", and achieving ultimate wisdom
 - Aligning oneself with the mysticism of demonic teachings for self-serving purposes of power and enrichment

- Necromancy: conjuring up the dead for prophesying or delivering a sermon. Necromancy is performed along with use of evil spirits to produce supernatural effects
 - Aligning oneself with demonic forces for self-serving purposes of power and enrichment
- Gnosis: understanding and possession of intuitive knowledge of the spiritual realm
 - Equipping oneself with the teaching of the demonic realm for self-serving purposes of power and enrichment

The counterfeit of miracles is magick. It is Satan's lie to distract from the truth. But, since Satan cannot actually create anything, he did not create magick. He developed the environment for its use. He knows and understands the laws of the spiritual and natural realms. He uses that knowledge to take the tools God has created and use them for self-serving purposes of power and enrichment to further his own agenda. This is not a big leap since magick is part of the dark and He loves the dark.

As a matter of fact, Isaiah 45 has God taking responsibility for the existence of magick simply because He alone created the possibility for its existence.

Magick works on the same fundamental laws as spiritual miracles.

But what does this mean? It must mean that the same principles to perform miracles are in force to perform magick. A very good example of this is seen in Genesis during the plagues. The magicians turned their staff into a snake just as Moses did in order to prove they were as powerful as Moses...they needed to keep their position in Pharaoh's court. They also turned the water into blood and added to the already unbearable plague of frogs.

Why not use their magick to stop the river from turning to blood or to stop the plague of frogs? They had already shown themselves to be as powerful as Moses in the eyes of their boss, securing their income level as magi. But to continue on with these plagues in the face of those already suffering, they proved themselves to be absolutely self-serving with little interest for the sufferings of the people of Egypt, their own people. Their main concern was position and profit. And again, I must ask why they could not duplicate the other plagues.

The answer is simple. God put a stop to it. God was not going to let these magi, agents of Lucifer, curse the entire land of Egypt when the plagues He had planned would differentiate between His people and the Egyptians. The magi would not have made such a distinction and the lessons would have been lost in confusion.

Magick always tries to muddy up what God is doing so that people become confused and remain lost.

The Difference:

Magick always has self-serving motives. Miracles are always performed from the heart of the servant.

In the New Testament these four Greek words are principally used to designate miracles:

1. Semeion, a "sign", i.e., an evidence of a divine commission; an attestation of a divine message (Matt. 12:38, 39; 16:1, 4; Mark 8:11; Luke 11:16; 23:8; John 2:11, 18, 23; Acts 6:8, etc.); a token of the presence and working of God; the seal of a higher power.
2. Terata, "wonders;" wonder-causing events; portents; producing astonishment in the beholder (Acts 2:19).

3. Dunameis, “might works;” works of superhuman power (Acts 2:22; Rom. 15:19; 2 Thess. 2:9); of a new and higher power.
4. Erga, “works;” the works of Him who is “wonderful in working” (John 5:20, 36).

Let’s look at some of the miracles in the Bible, Old and New Testaments. These are simply recorded examples of the types of things that the righteous of the Lord should be able to do.

- Inanimate objects changed to living things
 - Ex 7:10-12
- The elements obey the word of the righteous
 - Ex 7:20-12:30; Ex 14:21-31; Ex 15:23-25; 1 Ki 17, 18; Josh. 10:12-14; 2 Ki 2:21, 22; Matt 8:23; Mark 4:37; Luke 8:22; Ex 14:22; Ex 14:23-30
- The fortresses of the enemy cannot stand against the righteous
 - Josh 6:6-20
- The dead shall be raised to life
 - 1 Ki 17:17-24; 2 Ki 13:21; John 11:38-44; Acts 9:36-41; Acts 20:9-12
- Stores and supplies extended while necessary
 - 2 Ki 4:2-7; 2 Ki 4:42-44; Matt 14:15; Mark 6:30; Luke 9:10; John 6:1-14
- Lost things are returned
 - 2 Ki 6:5-7.
- The thoughts of the enemy are revealed
 - 2 Ki 6:12
- The righteous can heal the multitudes
 - Matt 9:27-31; Mark 8:22-26; Luke 13:11-17; Matt 8:5; Luke 7:1; Acts 5:12-16; Acts 19:11, 12
- The needs of the righteous will be supplied
 - Matt 17:24-27; Luke 5:4-11; John 2:1-11
- The righteous will not be harmed
 - Luke 4:28-30; Acts 28:3-6
- The righteous shall deliver the people of spirits
 - Matt 8:28 Mark 5:1 Luke 8:26
- The righteous shall do unusual things
 - Matt 14:25 Mark 6:48 John 6:15

Above is a mixture of miracles that were performed:

1. By the prophets before the baptism of the Holy Spirit
2. By Jesus after His baptism of the Holy Spirit by John the Baptist
3. By the Apostles after the baptism of the Holy Spirit at Pentecost

John 14:12 Yes, indeed! I tell you that whoever trusts in me will also do the works I do! Indeed, he will do greater ones, because I am going to the Father. (TCJB)

Where are we on that meter of John 14:12? People have been healed when I prayed. People have been delivered of spirits and principalities through me. I have commanded the elements, not quite Elijah style, but the rain stopped when I needed it to for a few hours throughout a 7 month period (no harm done, pacific northwest is extremely wet). I have known the thoughts of enemies. I have had my needs met miraculously. I have had lost things returned.

But do I do greater things than Jesus? Sadly, no. Definitely not. I barely do the same things Jesus did. Jesus didn't say "some of you...", He said we shall all be able to do these things.

Again, we have been sold a bill of goods believing that only the few who stand high on a stage, perform eloquently, and travel the world have these gifts. We run to conference after conference following these people because we have elevated their position beyond our own. And still, their track record is not 100%, like that of Jesus.

The scripture of Mark 6:5 was dropped into my heart.

Mark 6:4-6 But Yeshua said to them. "The only place people don't respect a prophet is in his home town, among his own relatives, and in his own house." So he could do no miracles there, other than lay his hands on a few sick people and heal them. He was amazed at their lack of trust. Then he went through the surrounding towns and villages, teaching. (TCJB)

So I did a search to find out what other people were saying about this scripture. And there was a complete consensus that it really did not mean Jesus "couldn't" do any miracles; it really meant that He "wouldn't" do any miracles.

This disturbed my spirit. I pondered this for 2 days. I pondered only this one scripture, this one word. Did Jesus really refuse to do miracles? Does God ever refuse to do miracles? Have you ever seen the movie Jesus Christ Superstar? King Herod sings a song that epitomizes what the people of Jesus' home town felt. (very abbreviated version below)

Jesus, I am overjoyed to meet you face to face.
You've been getting quite a name all around the place.
Healing cripples, raising from the dead.
And now I understand you're God,
At least, that's what you've said.
So you are the Christ
You're the great Jesus Christ
Prove to me that you're divine
Change my water into wine
That's all you need do
Then I'll know it's all true...
...Prove to me that you're no fool
Walk across my swimming pool...
...Feed my household with this bread
You can do it on your head
Or has something gone wrong?

The people in Jesus' home town, Nazareth, were pious people. They were conservative Jews who had an expectation of what a good Jew should look like, and how their God acted. They were all moderately taught, went to synagogue every Shabbat, and maintained all the ceremonies and rituals required of both their God and their ancestors. And they expected that everyone should to conduct themselves as a proper Jew.

But Jesus was not the picture-perfect-in-the-box Jew. He did things differently; he did not meet their approval. He was learned, which amazed them. Where did all His wisdom and understanding of the scriptures come from, He was simply a lowly carpenter?

We all get caught up believing that others should meet the standards of our idea of righteousness. It is the cause of all religious wars; the Crusades, the Inquisition, Jihad, etc. It is the very bottom line for ethnic cleansing and spiritual genocide. It is the root of all witch hunts and even the current Jezebel witch hunt that is sweeping through the church. The 3 "friends" of Job went to him, not to console him and pray with him, but to judge him according to their perceived righteousness, condemning him for his sin. He obviously must be in sin... just look at his situation... the loss of blessing has to be God's judgment.

But we all have different callings, and different requirements are made of each one to fulfill those callings. Jews were forbidden to be naked, yet Ezekiel was told to lay outside the city gates naked for 1.5 years. Jews were supposed to marry righteous women of God, godly women of Jewish decent. Yet, Hosea was not only instructed to marry a harlot whom he was not allowed to divorce, but he had to call his children weird names. We are not all called to the same place in our walk and we cannot judge another's walk by our own experiences or preconceived understandings.

I am certainly not your typical Christian. I never will be. I have had many people try to force me to live up to their standard of righteousness; dictating what I can watch on television, even the style of my hair. I had a pastor offer to pay every month for me to do my hair like his wife. I have had people try to cleanse my mind of images I have seen. Many have tried to make me more acceptable, listen to more praise music, watch less TV, read more God books, all manner of things that they think will help me be more like them. My hair is too short. It shouldn't be blue. I don't walk right. I shouldn't do this, I should do that. I am who I was made to be. In progress maybe, but I can only be me.

I participated in a soaking session where one brings up a picture of something they have seen that is not of God and apply the blood of Jesus to that image, cleansing the mind of it. I recalled one image that I didn't want, one image of the millions I have seen. I have seen the most despicable things imaginable since I was 4 years old and would be overjoyed to get rid of some of them if not all. I have seen visions that would drive most people mad. I have seen the inside of clay jars encasing a small child as she was thrown off the ledge into the fire in a sacrifice to Baal. I have seen the suffering and ultimate very prolonged death that child went through as they slowly cooked to death. I saw the inside of the jar, not just the outside. I have seen demons and people in hell. I have smelled death on people. As I sat there, in a church leader's living room, applying the blood of Jesus to an image I have seen, I was chastised by the Father who said, "What right have you to dismiss what I have caused you to see?" My calling is not your calling. I may appear to some as an ungodly person, but I have firsthand knowledge of the enemy and what he is doing in peoples' lives. It is with this knowledge that I can lead people to freedom through deliverance. I am where the Lord has put me.

I am a spy. I spy on the enemy. I help people get free of demonic input. I could not do that with my head in the sand. A line from the movie The Rite was excellent and worth quoting. "Pretending not to believe in the devil won't protect you from him." I am called to know my enemy and the lies he teaches. Every war is won by knowing the enemy.

But Christians for the most part do pretend and want to hide from the truth, choosing instead ignorant slavery. It goes right along with those famous lines that drive me crazy. "Starve the devil out." "The devil can't stand praise music." "A possessed person can't stand holy water."

I could go on...but it would only work me up.

Jesus was called a glutton and a winebibber, a friend of publicans and sinners. He went places proper Jews would not go. He did things proper Jews would never think of doing. He did not live up to their "holy" expectations and so, he COULD not do miracles in His home town because the people would not come to Him to be healed. They did not trust Him so they stayed away.

In fact, let's look at the whole of Mark 6:1-6 Then Yeshua left and went to his home town, and his talmidim followed him. On Shabbat he started to teach in the synagogue, and many who heard him were astounded. They asked, "Where did this man get all this? What is this wisdom he has been given? What are these miracles worked through him? Isn't he just the carpenter? the son of Miryam? the brother of Ya`akov and Yosi and Y'hudah and Shim`on? Aren't his sisters here with us?" And they took offense at him. But Yeshua said to them. "The only place people don't respect a prophet is in his home town, among his own relatives, and in his own house." So he could do no miracles there, other than lay his hands on a few sick people and heal them. He was amazed at their lack of trust. Then he went through the surrounding towns and villages, teaching. (TCJB)

His hometown knew of His reputation. They knew about the miracles He performed. They were amazed at His wisdom. But they took offence at Him and would not come to be healed. They knew and they refused. It was not that He refused to heal them, they refused to come. And if they would not come, He could not heal them. They weren't healed because He didn't fit their rigid ideas.

History is littered with causalities that refused to turn to God and be healed and forgiven.

God says, "then, if my people, who bear my name, will humble themselves, pray, seek my face and turn from their evil ways, I will hear from heaven, forgive their sin and heal their land. (2 Chronicles 7:14)

He is a longsuffering God but He is quick to forgive and restore. He is quick to bless. But it requires something on our part. Repentance. Repentance is the act of turning from our evil way and turning to God. Most people forget that and most churches do not teach it. Taking responsibility for allowing things to affect you even though you were not in agreement with the offence, for instance abuse or theft, still requires your repentance in order to be free of the fear, the anger, the violation etc. He will heal. He will restore. But we need to participate by being willing.

Our entire society is steeped in magick. Our roots are in magick regardless of where we live now or where we originate. Our ancestors all the way back to Adam and Eve knew magick and worked magick. Adam's son built the first temple of Baal. Noah's son rebuilt the first temple of Baal; his grandson the Tower of Babel. From that tower, which everyone participated in building, all the nations of the world went out. And with them they took their ceremonies, understanding, theologies and traditions, passing them along to their children and their children and their children...who eventually migrated to your home town...with all their spiritual baggage intact!

As a matter of fact, the distinguishing feature of these religions built by Cain, Ham and Nimrod was that they sought personal gain at the expense and death of innocent children. They performed child sacrifice, throwing their own children into the fire to gain favor, health, power, wealth and fame for themselves.

This is no different than what we have done today. We have sold out our children to be raised by government schools, television, babysitters and strangers enabling both parents to bring income. Income needed to pay off too much debt. Debt incurred for our convenience and created by corporate greed. Lucifer has offered us a society of toys and luxury with the inherent need to “keep up with the Joneses.” We all want the latest and greatest, set before us at no immediate cost. Isn't that so like Satan? Reward first, cost later? This is exactly the opposite of God...cost first, reward later.

In fact, companies pay big dollars for a fake family to move into a suburb, creating the perfect set up for the selfish need to have the same latest and greatest toys, cars, homes and clothes. And the cost? Our children who are left alone to die in the fire of Satan's furnace.

Our churches are filled with magick disguised by Christian terms. Doing things in the name of the Virgin Mary is magick. There is only one name under heaven – Jesus Christ. There is only one name by which we are saved, freed and restored – Jesus Christ. There is no man that is His representative here on the earth, and no prophet that is greater. Any other teaching than the name of Jesus Christ is false and will take its followers to hell.

I am very passionate about how magick has infiltrated the truth to steal us away from a true relationship with God. It angers me a great deal. (Another rant Susan patiently endures) And as Christians, we think if we ignore these lies, they will disappear.

When pondering that vision of the blood being infused into the spirit, I was brought to a basic understanding of chemistry. I will try to explain it in a way that even I can understand. It will be difficult for me as chemistry has never been my forte or even on my radar to investigate. I am a physics person. I get it.

What so few of us realize is that everything in our natural realm, and even the spiritual one, is moving. Every molecule that makes up any substance is moving constantly and it is the movement of these molecules that is an important part of what causes chemical reactions. This is because we were created by the moving spoken word of God.

A chemical reaction happens when 2 substances come together. However, not all substances create a chemical reaction. Example: water and oil do not mix, do not react. The reason that a chemical reaction didn't happen is that the molecules weren't able to line up with each other correctly. It's like you extending your right hand and your friend extending his left hand at the same time. You can't shake hands because your hands are in the wrong position.

Violent chemical reactions are caused by different molecules coming together but also because they release energy at the same time. Certain molecules, when they chemically react don't do so easily. They combine, but because one may be moving at a different speed than the other, they combine violently.

Chemical reactions take place when a set of reactants combine to yield a set of products. It can be visualized in this diagram where A and B represent reactants while C and D represent the products that are produced from the reaction:

Some chemical reactions take a very long time to happen while others can happen instantly. So the rate of chemical reactions are somewhat based on the chemical properties of the reactants.

Another thing to keep in mind is the collision theory. The collision theory states that for a reaction to occur, its molecular reactants must collide with each other. When these reactants reach a particular point with their collisions, the chemical reaction occurs and yields its products. The particular point the reactants must reach is called the activation energy, which varies in terms of which reactants are colliding with each other.

There are 4 ways to speed up a chemical reaction. They are: catalysts, pressure, concentration of reactants and heat.

Catalysts can be used to speed up a chemical reaction by lowering the activation energy level that the reactants must reach in order for a reaction to occur thus increasing the reaction rate itself. Catalysts are not used up in the reaction. This is partly because catalysts are not included in the reactions and therefore do not convert into product.

Another way that speeds up reactions is the amount of concentration in the reactants. If there are more concentrations of reactants in a system, it makes sense that these reactants have a higher chance of colliding with each other and this creates the possibility of the chemical reaction happening much faster.

Falling in line with the collision theory, temperature and pressure are two more ways to speed up a chemical reaction. In theory, the higher the temperature, the faster the reactant molecules will move. Because these molecules are moving faster, they have a better chance of colliding with each other and producing the chemical reaction.

Like temperature, pressure is also important in that it can restrict the space that the reactant molecules move. The higher the pressure, the less space the molecules have to move which also increases the probability that they will collide.

I bet your mind is exploding now trying to figure out the relevance of all this scientific talk to miracles and magick. I know mine was.

Everything in this life, whether spiritual reality or natural reality has been created for one purpose only: to teach people about God and to bring them to God. Two weeks ago I found myself enveloped by an incredible vision that left me shaking. I have no idea where I was because there was absolutely nothing around me. Everything I knew either in vision or reality was gone. There was absolutely nothing. I hovered there in complete emptiness wondering what was going on. Then I realized I was in the planck moment (the smallest period of time measurement that will ever be possible) between two periods of time. I was between past and future. The past consisted of the eternity that God existed before creating anything, and about 14 billion years of creation, all the planets, universes, dimensions, heavens, angels, people, animals...everything that has been created. And I saw the purpose of everything created. It was to teach us about God and bring us to God. There was nothing that was created that did not have this purpose and this purpose was both for the angels and mankind. Although the angels could actually see the face of God and go to the Throne Room whenever they desired, and yet, 1/3 succumbed to the lie..

And the Lord showed me that He has been in a box. Everything He has created has been confined to this purpose and so His creative power has been limited.

We think so selfishly. When everything is said and done we can finally be with the Lord and see Him face to face. We can be in a paradise of heaven that will bring peace to our spirits and abundance to our souls. We are all looking forward to the mansions, to eternity with no more death. We think in terms of just our own pleasure. But not only will we be placed in a position of Kingdom Living, but the angels will be freed from 4 million years of warfare with the enemy, war on their behalf and ours. But God benefits immensely as well. He will finally have His friends, the angels and His Bride, and He will be let out of the box that confines His creative power.

And then I saw the beginning of the future. And I can promise you, it is nothing like you can ever envision. God has not yet begun to create. His creations are endless and magnificent. Susan loves water. She would be quite content swimming with the dolphins for days on end, something I totally cannot fathom. However, she will be engulfed with swimming in a fluid creation of endless possibility and experiences. What I see is Susan swimming in the sea of space, the sea of atmospheres, the sea of life...not just oceans of water. It is something I know she cannot imagine, but I know it is true because I have seen it.

I may not be able to describe the experience I have seen, but I can tell you it is a place I will go to often and explore. My whole being was engulfed by the whole and there was no emptiness, loneliness, grief, despair, frustration or any nagging thought tugging me down from the complete and utter fulfillment of my life. Although I was a separate entity/personage, I could feel the whole because we were all one with God, and when He created something new and wonderful, I knew and experienced it. It was, without doubt or exaggeration, absolutely the most exhilarating experience of my vision life. What God will create far outshines what God has created.

Sorry, that was a little aside. But it was said so that you understand the underlying purpose of chemistry and understanding it is to understand spiritual laws and bring us back to God in a deeper way. Hopefully it touched on that concept, so onward.

The very basic premise of chemistry is that we are all made up of molecules and all molecules are in constant movement. A chemical reaction occurs when the molecules of 2 reactants come together, collide and create a new product. Now let's look at this spiritually.

John 14:30 I won't be talking with you much longer, because the ruler of this world is coming. He has no claim on me (TCJB)

Ezekiel 28:15 You were perfect in your ways from the day you were created, until unrighteousness was found in you. (TCJB)

Alright, let's look at these verses closer in scientific terms.

Whether spiritual or natural, all creation is formed of moving molecules. Because we are created by the Creator, our molecules all have energy. Because we are created perfectly by the Creator of righteousness and perfection, our molecules were created to move at a certain speed, a speed that is lined up with the Creator Himself. We were created by His word and His word moves at a certain speed.

Have you ever wondered what we sound like? I implore you to click the links below and listen. This is the music of the human chromosome q.

<http://www.toshima.ne.jp/~edogiku/FlaMov0301/Chr9Homo.html>

This next link is the music called The Duet of Aids

<http://www.toshima.ne.jp/~edogiku/MIDIFilePic/MIDIFileAIDSDuet.html>

And this is the link for the music of Breast Cancer Susceptibility

<http://www.toshima.ne.jp/~edogiku/MIDIFilePic/MIDIFileBRCA1.html>

Coupling Made Easy by RecA-DNA Complex

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?gl=JP&hl=ja&v=TH4lusXdgpw>

Direct Repair of O-methylguanine by Suicidal Enzyme

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?gl=JP&hl=ja&v=jVgSE1MofPY>

Your Irresistible Smell: Odorant Receptor of Fruitfly <http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=0aYo4IMGvIc>

Joining Broken Ends: KU-DNA Complex <http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=UBTL5mLTnjl>

Farewell to the Other Half: Holliday Junction Resolvase <http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=NZ2Jmqf-lB8>

The Guardian of Genome: Three Faces of P53 Tumor-Suppressor

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=1uQ-6wl6a7U&NR=1>

To Correct Mismatches: MutS Binding to a G:T Mismatch

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=G4PabQmC3V4&NR=1>

Dreadful Crystals of Prion and Alzheimer Diseases <http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=LJFZXSKRKHc>

Here is the Dreadful Crystals of Phion and Alzheimer Diseases

<http://walsoww.youtube.com/watch?v=LJFZXSKRKHc>

And here is a site that allows you to get your own DNA made into music. The link to their sample is http://www.yourdnasong.com/music_samples.html and find the PLAY button on the right hand side of the page. It will amaze you.

And here is a site that actually made me cry for its beauty. Although they are extremely short clips of the examples of the CD they are trying to sell, the music will move you. It has the sounds of music of healing plants and the human body. This site is worth the visit. <http://www.molecularmusic.com/>

Imagine, if you will, the entirety of creation singing continually, everything and everyone in harmony. I have heard this sound and I can tell you it is overwhelmingly glorious beyond description.

Just as the 21,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000+ (21 Octillian) strings of your entire body are part of the worship whole, the words of your mouth are part of that same worship whole. Imagine the song of your body....

On earth today, with its population of 6.8 billion (Dec. 8, 2009) people means there is an estimated 1.4 duodecillion (that is 39 zeroes) vibrating strings filling creation with sound. That does not include the animals, birds, trees, plants, rocks, etc.

Now imagine what God is hearing since He hears the music...the music He created. You have seen from the above examples that different parts of the body are saved/delivered. We assume that we are saved as a whole person, since the body is one unit. But the above sounds prove that this is not so. Different parts of my body create different sounds. And so if I have been delivered of the spirits that resided in my blood and that music has resumed the sound of it's creation (each one of us is created to sing its own song), it does not stand to reason that the spirits residing in my skin cells of my upper arm are also affected or gone. I have to put my whole being under the blood of Jesus. My generational DNA of each and every cell so that there is NO HIDDEN SIN lurking about anywhere in my body. And that is what this journey of the last 12 years has been for me. Complete and total surrender, putting my entire being under the blood of Jesus so that I can truly say "I am saved" - every part of me, in entirety.

If it was true that I am saved completely just because I accept Jesus as my Lord and Savior, then why am I still smoking, looking at porn, or living common-law with a partner, or rationalizing any number of sins, convincing myself it's alright? The answer is simple. I may have accepted Jesus as my Savior and King, but I have not submitted my life to Him entirely. Alas, I will be one of the many who, on Judgment Day, will look at Him with my mouth hanging open, completely flabbergasted and taken aback because He says, "Go away. I never knew you."

What kind of marriage can we have if we lie to our spouse, hiding the things that we do? I realize I am not married, but I can promise you that there is absolutely nothing my best friend does not know about me. I held a secret for 12 years and could bear it no longer. I had to confess that secret and bring it into the open. If I am compelled to do this with a friend, how much more must we do this with a spouse or even more, with the Lord?

God took responsibility for the evil that is in creation. It was not because He wanted it to be so. It was not that He wanted what He created to be used for evil. But the very creation of something means that if you add free will into the mix, it can be used for good or bad. A hammer can be used to build a home or it can be used to kill a person. It does not make the hammer good or bad, but it is our use of available materials that is good or bad. God took responsibility for everything He created. It is time we take responsibility for how we use it. He does not ask anything of us that He Himself has not done.

A little wine can be used for communion or a lot of wine can be used for drunkenness and numbing the pain. A little food can be used to build the body or a lot of food can be used to slowly kill the body. A little non-inhaled nicotine can be used to relax the muscles assisting in the reduction of fractures and dislocations or a lot of inhaled nicotine can be used to cause cancer and death.

Everything God has created is designed for our good, but Satan and greed uses these things for our harm.

Sin or unrighteousness, when it enters our being, acts like a drag to slow down the speed of movement of our molecules. It changes the song of our DNA. The unrighteousness was found in Lucifer because his molecules slowed down, his energy became different, his sound became dark and ominous.

As an example, when I was delivered of the spirit of violence, the spirits did not come out of my being as a whole. It came out of the exact areas it had lodged. And of course, for my education they were allowed to display this to me. I had about 17 bruises on my arms, legs and midriff. Each one was a definite place, not a generalized whole. We need to see these spiritual realities as they are and not how we hope they might be. These false ideas are fostered by the enemy himself in order to hide and stay in God's people, keeping the church blinded.

Now Lucifer is complete unrepentant unrighteousness, and therefore he moves at a completely different speed than His Creator. But Jesus, who had no sin, moved at a different speed than Lucifer for He was in tune with His Father. In short, when Lucifer came unto Jesus to mix with Him, blend with Him, join with Him, whatever, he could not because his molecules could not react with Jesus' molecules because the speed of their molecules was different.

In short, Lucifer could find no entry point in Jesus.

Had Jesus, for one minute, looked at all the wealth, fame and possessions that Lucifer offered him in the kingdoms of the world, His molecules would have been slowed down by the sin of greed. Eve's molecules were slowed down just by engaging and entertaining the idea that God was holding out on her. Thus Lucifer found an opening. The same with Adam as he envisioned life without Eve. They were open for sin. Jesus did not fall into this trap.

Sin slows us down and therefore we cannot mesh with God's molecules to create a new man. Sin makes us out of sync with God's molecules and changes our song. It is only as we get sin out of our lives, the drag off our molecules, can they again begin to travel at the optimum speed. And when this happens, we can then be infused with the molecules of God, the embodiment of the fullness of the Holy Spirit, and we can become and do the things we were designed to do. How exciting is that?

Because of the sin in our lives, we cannot do greater things than Jesus. We cannot even do the things of Jesus. We are indeed in a very sad state.

I had a lady say to me one time that she no longer felt bad for smoking, an addiction she could not overcome, because I was fat. (I am paraphrasing) Well, she was right. But it is a decision. Fat didn't bother me. I didn't care. I didn't care until Susan's daughter said that I needed to lose 8,000 lbs. Yes, I realize it was a simple, humorous exaggeration on her part, but it hit me. I was fat. It suddenly dawned on me that I was, in effect, committing slow suicide. When the Lord told me that I was a prescription addict –for 58 years – I decided right then and there that I would do whatever it took to overcome this sin in my life. It took 2 months of agonizing sickness to overcome, but I did it. And it was not easy, comfortable or even remotely pleasant. It did not matter. God said it was in the way, I quit. And now, I am doing the same with the fat. It too is a difficult task, but I will do whatever it takes.

As I told Brian today of my resolve and the decision I made, not to be confused with a New Year's resolution that is never kept, he pointed out to me that you never hear of any miraculous weight gain at any meetings. You only hear of miraculous weight loss. (I should mention that Corrie Ten Boom's sister, Betsie, miraculously gained weight after she was dead as a testimony). So obesity is not part of God's Kingdom. Thanks Brian for spurring me on in my decision.

And just so I am accountable, I have lost 15 lbs. and I have 65 lbs. more to go. I am no longer going to hide or try to excuse my way out of it. It is a matter of decision, and I have made the decision. I will no longer co-conspire with the spirit of suicide and be out of sync with my God. I want to be able to do the things Jesus did. I want to do greater things than He did because He promised me I could.

It is time to stop making excuses. There is no addiction (food, alcohol, drugs, sex, pornography, whatever) that is worth keeping. There is no spirit, habit, mindset, dream, goal, purpose, thought or whatever that is worth keeping if it gets in between me and God. I want to mesh completely with God and therefore I need to get rid of everything that stands in the way. There is no question, no option.

We need to stop lying to ourselves and decide what side of the fence we want to be on. I doubt my mother would be proud to be used as an object lesson, but hopefully she will never know. I have no subscribers from heaven. When she was young she loved adventure. She was a wild child of rebellion in a tame 1950's sort of way – she loved to dance even though brought up a very formal, traditional Christian. She always tried to push the envelope. So one afternoon she was walking on a fence. But she slipped, one leg going out on either side. She landed with a brutal thud sending her to hospital. She had injured her pubic bones making natural childbirth impossible. She could conceive, carry to full term, but she could not deliver the child she carried.

This is exactly what happens to us when we walk on the fence, unable to make a decision between God and Satan. And make no mistake, hanging onto our habits and mindsets is siding with Satan. We may become pregnant with the child of promise, but we will never be able to deliver that child even if it is full term. What is our hidden sin that we will not cover under the blood of Jesus?

This is the price for walking on the fence. We will never be able to birth our purpose, our calling, the son within us. We need to make a decision, get off the fence and walk the talk.

To boil things down to their simplest terms, everything was created by the word of God – energy of the spoken word. God is energy. We are energy. Everything around us is energy. The spiritual realm is energy. And everything is in a state of movement, the molecules making up that energy moving at different speeds.

God created both positive and negative energy. A simple example of this can be found in poisonous plants. They can be used to kill a person or provide some medicinal health benefit.

- The Apple of Sodom can easily kill someone but can also be used as a cardiovascular tonic, digestive aid, can be used to treat skin infections, etc.
- Elderberry can easily kill someone but can also be used to treat bronchitis, respiratory problems, fly repellent, etc.
- Black Nightshade can easily kill someone but can also be used to increase appetite, diminish pain and irritation and combat fever.
- Cow's Udder can easily kill someone but can also be used for athlete's foot, irritability, restlessness, etc.
- American Pokeweed or American Nightshade can easily kill someone but can also be used as an anti-cancer, anti-inflammatory, anti-AIDS, and antiviral medication.
- Air Plant can easily kill someone but can also be used to treat infections, rheumatism and inflammation.
- Narcissus plants can easily kill someone but can also be used to treat wounds and abdominal constriction.
- Autumn Crocus can easily kill someone but can be used to treat gout.

Another way of looking at this is seen in the science of dark matter and light matter. They not only exist together, but are so close together that you could feel dark matter on your cheek if you were actually that sensitive. But no worries, no one is that sensitive. They are the molecules of two different types of matter that are in the same glass, so to speak, but their molecules do not mix together because they are travelling at different speeds. If you pour water and oil into the same glass, no matter how much you stir them, they will never mix even though their molecules will try.

So we are one reactant of the equation. Our molecules move. And when we line ourselves up with another reactant whose molecules move at the same speed or a compatible speed, we mesh together and produce a new product.

A + B → C

So, if we are one reactant of the equation, who is the other reactant? Obviously, we have 2 choices available: God or Satan. When we react with God, we produce miracles. When we react with Satan, we produce magick.

It is a very simple equation. And the catalysts in this equation are obedience or disobedience, faith or fear, and self-serving motives or servitude.

Luke 22:26 But not so with you! On the contrary, let the greater among you become like the younger, and one who rules like one who serves. (TCJB)

Matthew 12:18 Here is my servant, whom I have chosen, my beloved, with whom I am well pleased; I will put my Spirit on him, and he will announce justice to the Gentiles. (TCJB)

John 13:5 Then he poured some water into a basin and began to wash the feet of the talmidim and wipe them off with the towel wrapped around him. (TCJB)

Matthew 5:44 But I tell you, love your enemies! Pray for those who persecute you!

Jesus is serving others. God is serving others. Before anything was created, God KNEW that He would spend eternity serving us, in fact, everything created is created for our benefit.

Magick is self-serving while miracles are serving others.

I am going to be completely brutal because that is how it is shown to me... completely brutally. I repent of my magick, the magick I still do as a Christian. Now let me share with you what the Lord showed me in great detail.

Matthew 5:28 But I tell you that a man who even looks at a woman with the purpose of lusting after her has already committed adultery with her in his heart. (TCJB)

This is a very interesting scripture. I now look at this scripture differently. I personally would have used the word rape for this scripture, but I do not believe the "R" word existed back then. However, this scripture shows an episode of a person who is completely self-serving at the expense of another. And it does not matter that this person never touched that woman, it was the same crime, and it is totally punishable by death.

For those Christians who are still addicted to pornography here is a word of caution. Pornography is actually raping the victim in the picture in your thoughts and in your heart. And this is a crime punishable by death. Entering into pornography consciously, then repenting of it, but repeating the process again and again, does not bring forgiveness of this habitual sin. Repent and cast out the spirit that has put you into pornographic bondage, and stop the process. Then put this sin under the blood of Jesus and leave it there to receive forgiveness. IT IS THE PROACTIVE APPROACH OF RIGHTEOUSNESS, NOT THE REACTIVE APPROACH OF SIN. We must look at our habitual sins and seek deliverance as a repentant step towards righteousness. Chose repentance with deliverance or keep the hidden sin in our lives.

And make no mistake, I deal with a lot of people still trapped in pornography even after being a Christian forever. I actually know of a church that teaches a respected and well attended pre-marital course that says anything you do in the marriage bed is alright, even if it involves handcuffs. We are a Christian people in crisis when our leadership is teaching us that the bondage of sin is acceptable to God.

Sorry, another aside. Back to the newsletter. I want you to look at this in the light of magick. Alright, let's see if I can properly translate the pictures I am receiving into words. It is so difficult at times, so very, very difficult.

Imagine if you will a picture of you sitting in a blank, empty room. You are one part of the equation. At all times, you are connected to another part of the equation. It looks like this:

G + Y → Mi where G=God, Y=You and Mi=Miracle (The perfect equation)

S + Y → Ma where S=Satan, Y=You and Ma=Magick

But, in reality, Jesus was the only one who was part of that perfect equation. We, on the other hand, fit the following equation because we are in mixture until we are perfect.

G + S + Y → Mi + Ma where G=God, S=Satan, Y=You, Mi=Miracle and Ma=Magick

When we connect with God we can perform miracles. The catalysts to speed up these reactions to perform miracles are servitude, faith and obedience. When we connect with Satan we perform magick. The catalysts to speed up these reactions to perform magicks is self-serving motives, fear and disobedience.

When your molecules reach sufficiently speed (sin free through repentance and deliverance) to be able to mesh with God's molecules, and you add the catalyst of servitude, faith OR obedience, the reaction is faster and a miracle is created.

However, if your molecules are dragged down, slowed down by sin (through habitual sin, pride, fear and arrogance...) you are not able to mesh with God but you are able to mesh with Satan. Add to this the catalyst of the self-serving motive of fear and disobedience, you can create something that may appear like a miracle but is in reality magick. Calling ourselves Christian does not make us completely one with God if we are laden with sin.

This is why Jesus prays in John 17 that we would be one with the father as He is one with the Father.

I will share an good example of majick from my experience. I would sit in a back row and just watch as every week, without fail, the same procedure repeated itself. It was a small church, 50 people max on a good day, and everyone sat in the same seats every Sunday. We would sing praise for exactly ½ hour. During the praise, person "A" across the aisle would begin to talk to themselves supposedly in prayer. But what I saw was the same demon each week in front of him as he made a deal with this demon. Perhaps not so much in a blatantly conscious way, but nonetheless a deal was made. This man so wanted to be a prophet and pastor that he would have done anything, and did, to be recognized and accepted as such. He would then, after about 20 minutes, stand up and speak out a "prophecy". Then person "B", several aisles up, would stand up and say a similar "prophecy" to confirm the first one. Then person "C", in the second row, would stand up and "prophecy" a third confirming word. These 3 followed this exact procedure week in and week out for several years. It was completely consistent and predictable.

What they did was not a miracle of speaking God's word but they performed magick because they did so with the motive of being recognized as a prophet. SELF-SERVING.

Do you want a guideline for what is of God and what is not? Is the thing self-serving or is it serving others? Oh, but you say, these people were serving the people of God by prophesying to His people. This is a valid point, but the very fact that they did this every week for years, in exactly the same order like dominoes, proves that they were self-serving, wanting to be recognized as prophets who heard from God. A lot of what we consider as Holy Spirit manifestations is just human flesh manifestations from people wanting to appear holy. Their motives are not to serve the people of God but are self-serving. It is magick, or to be more precise, Christian magick.

As Christians, we have accompanying angels who travel with us when we drive. We can be listening to praise music on the radio and be very pleased with life. However, when someone cuts us off in traffic, what is our response? Do we curse them and swear at them or do we bless them and pray for them? Here is the mechanics of the equation.

If you are in relationship with God, your molecules and His molecules will react, the catalyst being servitude (and compassion) and you will bless the person who cut you off because that person's need of prayer is made obvious by their actions. However, if you are in relationship with Satan for that moment because of fear of a possible accident or indignation because he put you at risk, your molecules and his molecules will react, the catalyst being fear. You curse the person who cut you off because you are working in a self-serving motive that says you deserve more consideration. Miracles vs magick.

A very simple way to understand this is the popular mythology of a werewolf. A werewolf is a person for 27 days a month. He can even be a priest or a pastor. He can be the most loving, kind person in the village for those 27 days. But for 3 days of that month, this werewolf is an animal that hunts and attacks people. Regardless of what they might think of themselves, regardless of the excuses they might make for themselves, regardless of the fact that they are a man 27 days a month, they are simply a beast whose true hidden character surfaces periodically.

Matthew 7:18-23 A healthy tree cannot bear bad fruit, or a poor tree good fruit. Any tree that does not produce good fruit is cut down and thrown in the fire! So you will recognize them by their fruit. "Not everyone who says to me, 'Lord, Lord!' will enter the Kingdom of Heaven, only those who do what my Father in heaven wants. On that Day, many will say to me, 'Lord, Lord! Didn't we prophesy in your name? Didn't we expel demons in your name? Didn't we perform many miracles in your name?' Then I will tell them to their faces, 'I never knew you! Get away from me, you workers of lawlessness!'

Here we see the example of this in Jesus' own words. These are Christians but they are unhealthy Christians, Christians who have not given up their sin, who have not put it under the blood of Jesus. Christians who chose not to have a true relationship with Him. They did all the works. But they were workers of lawlessness because they were just like the magi of Pharaoh. Like Moses, they were brought up in the palace of Pharaoh. They looked the same, they spoke the same. You could even say, in this context, the magi were the Christians of the Egyptian palace. They did the same miraculous things, but except Moses did miracles in obedience and trust in the Lord, the magi worked magick disguised as miracles because they were not in reaction with the Lord.

How many times have we heard from a friend or even our own mouths, “You need to pray for “so and so” because.....” Regardless of what we think, slander is magick. Gossip is magick. Accusation is magick. How? Your molecules are aligned with the molecules of Satan (God does not slander, gossip or accuse). The catalyst is self-serving because the intent is to make you look better, while the other person is in sin. This is not necessarily conscious. The assumption you are accusing, slandering or gossiping about is in your mind. And the magick you create are barbed, destructive words. This is the same thing Jesus pointed out in the verse about adultery. But in this case, it is voodoo. Your words are the needles for the image in your head doing harm to the person that image represents. It is magick regardless of how much you try to convince yourself or others your motive is for the benefit of “so and so”.

If you see an issue in someone’s life, give it to God. Pray for the person. Perform a miracle by giving it to God instead of magick by keeping it in your own hands on public display. Give it to God. Let Him deal with it. Let Him judge the situation. Let Him work it out for the person. Give it to Him and drop it. If it arises in your heart again, give it to Him again. Build up the person. Do not tear them down.

This is not to be blind and stupid. We are to be wise as serpents (Matthew 10:16) so we do not fall into a trap unwittingly. But we are to be servants. Pray for them without falling into the same hole they are in. Do not give the devil a foothold in your life. (Ephesians 4:27)

Judging anyone is magic, not miracle. When we judge others we actually separate ourselves from God, taking out of His hands the right to judge. Only God can judge, not us. Only the Holy Spirit can read the hearts of man and God, not us. The 3 friends of Job, who were theoretically righteous, pious Jews, recognized and admired for their holy appearance and attitudes, actually went to Job for self-serving motives. Job was down in the dumps because of his situation. They wearied him further with long discussions to prove their point, that the holier-than-thou Job had sinned. How do we know that their actions were not of God? After all, they looked like they really cared about Job. We know because God Himself personally told Job to pray for these men and forgive them for what they did. They sinned in their self-righteous attempt to set Job straight.

We need to have the heart of God, not what we perceive as the heart of God.

Jesus healed everyone who came to Him. Not one person was turned away. He went out of His way to go to the one in a village who did not reject Him. He could not do any miracles in Nazareth because the people would not come to Him, save the few. He did lay His hands on and heal those few. It was not the person’s faith that healed them. In fact, Jesus pointed that out when He said, “I tell you the truth, I have not found anyone in Israel with such great faith.” (Matthew 8:10)

Here is the mechanics of how Jesus healed so many, even everyone who came.

Jesus was sinless. His molecules moved at the same speed as the Father’s. They meshed perfectly. Add to this the catalysts of obedience, trust and servitude, producing instantaneous and marvelous miracles. He alleviated the woes and trials of the people who came to Him.

How then do modern Christians with the gift of healing justify themselves when they say, “You are not healed because you lack faith?” It does not make sense. The only reason this can be so is because the “healer” is not completely meshed with the Holy Spirit and they themselves do not have the catalysts lined up, the faith, obedience and servitude.

If I come to a person with the gift of healing, I should be healed because of their trust. The multitudes who knew only a desperate hope were healed by Jesus’ faith. We need to adjust our thinking to line up with God. The excuses we have been taught must be discarded, allowing us to accept the miracle.

We are moving in such mixture. Our prophecies are not always 100% . Our healings are not 100% completed. Our miracles are not 100% performed. We are a people who walk in a mixture; obedience and disobedience, faith and fear, and servitude and self-serving. We have not made the decision to completely sell out to God. And it has been that way for 2,000 years, not to mention the 4,000 years before that.

Eve and Adam sold out for magick, the magick of lies, misconception and Luciferian self-serving gain.

When we can honestly, in our heart, lay down our dreams, goals, ambitions, ideas, understandings, expectations...everything that we are, then and only then can we ever hope to begin to walk with God. If we are not blessing people, joining our will with God’s will, walking in the faith, servitude and obedience of God, then we are performing magick at every turn.

There is no gray or middle ground. Things are moving too quickly now. We need to make our decision. This is the year we need to get real with God and pray. This is the year when God is going to draw a dividing line between His people, the true believers, and the rest of the world, just like He did in Egypt. We will see mighty works of Kingdom Living performed this year, in a great outpouring of the Holy Spirit. But I tell you the truth, this is not a half-way measure. Before this happens a great deception will sweep away those not grounded in the word of God. Those who are not sincere will be swept away because they loved a lie. Their heart is self-serving, not that of a servant.

It is all about attitude...attitude and decision.

Blab it and grab it, name it and claim it, word of faith for personal gain or improving our life is magick. Pure and simple. It is exactly the same as chanting and envisioning things believing them to be so for our gain.

Creating yourself a bubble of unreality is not a proactive approach to fixing the situation. It is magick. Paul was an evangelist. He would go to the Jewish community to preach the gospel of Christ. And more times than not, well, every time, he was rejected and cast out. At times he was even stoned for his labors. On one occasion he was stoned and thrown outside the city walls with the garbage. He rose from the dead, healed and whole, brushed himself off, sighed deeply, and headed back into the city. He did not create a bubble of unreality around him. He did not go into town, get a shower and change his clothes . He did not pretend that they did not kill him. He did not make excuses for the Jews who stoned him to death. He wore the same bloody, torn clothes he was left in. His face, arms and body were covered in blood. He stood before the Jews who had stoned him and, in obedience to the Lord, he became a miraculous testimony to the people, changing their lives.

Pretending to be something we are not, something others think we should be, or someone that has not been affected by life’s knocks is not lining up with God. It is magick and will not change anyone’s life. It doesn't mean hold grudges, it means that through forgiveness and overcoming, we can be a testimony. We can perform miracles of change in other's lives.

Jesus knew what was going to happen to Him at Gethsemane. He knew the torture. He knew His Father would turn His face away. He knew the rejection and pain. He knew the unbearable weight of sin would be upon His shoulders. He knew He would be dead for 3 days. And He knew this from the beginning, even before Lucifer came to Him and offered Him wealth, fame and power. He knew this and rejected Lucifer's offer in obedience to the sacrifice He would be asked to make. He came as a servant to die for our sins. He did not pretend He was not suffering the most agonizing death, naked, nailed to a cross of shame, when He forgave the soldiers, both Romans and Jews who crucified Him. His sacrifice and resurrection have performed the greatest miracle in the lives of millions because He was aligned with the Father.

Thank you, Jesus, for your raw honesty and obedience.

Obedience wasn't a once-in-awhile thing with Him. Faith wasn't a once-in-awhile thing with Him. Servitude was not a once-in-awhile thing with Him. They were part of Him, part of His nature, part of His desire, part of His identity because He chose them over anything else. He did not hesitate to chose God's way at every crossroad. His choices were consistent and His walk was consistent.

How do our leaders justify themselves pretending to be holy men and women of God while secretly committing adultery, fornication, pornography, drunkenness, drugs, smoking, pedophilia, accusation, murder, anger, arrogance, backbiting, assault, bitterness, etc? How does a pastor, a leader of the people, counsel a woman who feels like she is being raped every time her husband touches her with words of, "You need to subject your body to your husband." How do these leaders justify themselves when they are so obviously in rampant sin behind a veneer of Christianity?

Have I done this? Yes. And I have repented each step of the way and will continue to repent and allow God to change me. I do not have any desire to be a demigod and replace Jesus from the throne of my heart. And that means I need to be honest with God and myself. I do not want to pretend, to deceive myself with any lie. I am no better than anyone else. We are all in this together. I can only hope that by being honest I am aligning myself with God, with the catalyst of obedience, to create some miracle in your life. I hope that your life is changed, that you are freed that little bit more and able to build your relationship with God.

Again, looking at the 4 ways which force molecules into reaction thus creating a new product, we can see other spiritual applications. They are: catalysts, pressure, concentration of reactants and heat.

We have looked at catalysts: faith, obedience, servitude, or fear, disobedience and self-serving.

Another way that speeds up reactions is the concentration of the reactants. In other words, just as the prophesy for this year beseeches us to fill ourselves up with the word of God, that will cause an increase in the concentration of the reactant. If there is a higher concentration of reactants in a system, in this case, the word of Good, it makes sense that these reactants have a higher chance of colliding with each other, and a faster chemical reaction.

Temperature and pressure are two more ways to speed up a chemical reaction. When God wants to bring us to a point where we look to Him for our salvation and rescue, He applies pressure and fire. I know I have been in the fire of God many times. Both fire and pressure very much limit our options for escape. This confined space with no escape route leads us more quickly back to God. Then the miracle can be performed in our life. Pressure restricts the space that the reactant molecules move. Oh my. Yes, my space has been restricted over this past two years and I have been changed and delivered of uncountable things. That pressure has forced me into a position of freedom, just like contractions force the baby to be birthed or freed.

We need to decide what we want. We can no longer walk along the top of the fence and lose the ability to birth the child we carry. We need to decide. Which side of the fence are we on? And who are we going to mesh with...God or Satan?

I choose God. I chose God over drugs. I chose God over fat. I chose God over everything. And when the next decision comes along...I choose God because I have made a habit of it. You could say that this has become my habitual life to replace my habitual habits.

Join me. Make your decision. Join me in freedom this year. You need to make the decision now so that when the pressure is on, you can decide between the spirit that has taken over your free choice and God who gives you your free choice. This is the very foundation to freedom. Nothing else matters except God and your relationship with Him.

If this sounds harsh, then all the more we need to consider the words of Jesus. This is from the heart of God as I received it.

God bless you all abundantly and forever. I want to meet you all in eternity when God really begins to create, and I want to share His creation with you.

Jessica

PS The next newsletter is on Forgiveness. A complete study on this next step.